GERMANS HAVE BROKEN THROUGH BRITISH LINE

British Falling Back in St. Quentin Sector--Retirement May Be For Strategic Reasons--German Casualties Estimated at 150,000 and British at 100,000 in Past Few Days.

The information that the German army has broken through the British front west of St. Quentin is the biggest news which has come from the battle zone in France since the collapse of the German offensive at Verdun nearly two years ago.

The British war office admits that the Germans are advancing in the St. Quentin sector, saying that the British forces are falling back upon fortified positions which had previously been prepared.

The British are retiring in good order and the indications from the official statement is that the retirement is for strategic reasons to save the lives of troops and the guns.

Apparently the Germans have centered their heaviest attacks in the St. Quentin sector, especial mention being made in the official report of the enormous number of men and guns concentrated there.

The extent of the British retirement in the St. Quentin sector is not indicated, but the ground in that district is flat and had previously been devastated by the Germans before their great retreat, which may mean that the British might fall back to a point they previously occupied at the beginning of 1917.

The Germans have used the usual strategy of striking at both ends of the 50 mile salient, which struck into their front between the Scarpe river and the Oise river.

The army attacking the southern end of the salient was more successful than that attacking the northern end, for the British war office reports that the positions along the northern end of the front under attack have held firm, despite the tremendous pressure exerted against them.

If, as it is generally admitted now, the present drive on the western front is really the long heralded German offensive, a prolonged battle of bloody proportions may be expected.

The Germans have concentrated an unprecedented number of guns on the western front and the hulls of the infantry attacks are filled with bombardments which shake the ground for scores of miles as though an earthquake was rocking it.

Despite the fury of the German assaults and the retirement of the British forces the morale of England and France remains unshaken. The calmness and courage of England is reflected in the brave conduct of the British soldiers on the fighting line.

All of the reports of the fighting emphasize the severity of the German losses. In the two days of the German offensive, it is estimated the Germans have lost more than 60,000 men, or three army corps.

It was stated by a German military authority before the German drive started that Germany was prepared to lose 300,000 men if a victory could be achieved on the western front, but according to the information received from the western front so far the British line cannot be broken even at such a tremendous cost as this.

The Germans are attacking at the point where the British and French armies join. They are apparently driving westward in a straight line which makes it hard to tell what their decisive objective really is.

Field Marshal Haig in his official report to the British war office admitted that the Germans had penetrated the defensive system west of St. Quentin. This does not mean, however, that the British front has been breached. The British front consists of a series of fortified lines, one lying behind the other. The British front will not be broken until all of these are penetrated. So far the Germans have been able to get through one system of defensive positions at a single point.

London, March 23.—At an enormous cost of human life, the Germans have succeeded in penetrating the British defenses west of Cambrai.

The British war office admitted today that the Germans had broken through some of their positions in the St. Quentin sector, but stated that the British troops were falling back in good order. "Heavy fighting continued until a late hour of the night," the war office announced.

During the afternoon of Friday the Germans increased their artillery fire and employed heavy masses of infantry.

The attacks centered in the sector of St. Quentin, where the British were compelled to give ground. They fell back to previously prepared positions.

The district through which the British retired had previously been completely devastated by the Germans when they made their retreat from the Bapaume-Peronne district last year. It is virtually a desert of blasted land and ruined farm houses. Even the forests had been levelled.

In spite of the fury of the artillery assault and the heavy pressure of the infantry, the British soldiers behaved with the utmost gallantry and coolness, retiring under orders to fortifications in their rear.

Heavy fighting continues along the entire fifty mile front from the Oise to the Sene river.

Along the northern end of the line (southeast of Arras) the British lines held firm in spite of the terrific assaults launched against them.

The Germans had concentrated their heaviest guns and their greatest masses of infantry in the St. Quentin sector, south of which point the British and French lines join.

There the Teutonic troops were flung forward in dense formation across ground which had been plowed and churned by artillery fire.

Although raked by machine gun fire from the British trenches and torn by shells from the British explosives the Ger-

WHY NOT MAKE IT UNANIMOUS?

While larger amounts have been raised in other campaigns, never has the list of names been so large as in the K. of C. War Fund Campaign, which closes tomorrow. Never has a fund been so widely and generally popular. It would require only a little effort now on the part of individuals to bring practically everybody in the city into the campaign. Think of what it would mean to the soldiers—this convincing proof that EVERYBODY in Kingston is backing them up.

No matter how small your contribution, make it. It is the spirit that counts, as well as the money.

Leaders of religious opinion in the city have united in this campaign and spoken in no uncertain terms.

Let their followers back them up and prove to the world just where Kingston stands.

mans were able to advance. However, they suffered extraordinary losses.

The Germans continued to throw fresh troops into the fighting, showing that they had received reinforcements during the past twenty-four hours.

Washington, March 23.—Estimates of casualties in the great battle now in progress reaching the British embassy today and covering the period up until last evening, were that the German totalled at least 150,000 and the British less than 100,000.

London, March 25.—German reinforcements have been rushed to the front to strengthen the troops along the fifty-mile battle line where the British are being attacked, according to information received here today from Amsterdam.

The reinforcements were made necessary apparently by the heavy losses inflicted by the British upon the Germans in the first stage of their offensive.

After a brief lull in the infantry fighting, the Germans resumed their attack against the British, but they were not successful in breaking through at any point.

The British have conducted themselves like heroes during the first two days of the German offensive, their bravery being remarked by Field Marshal Haig.

At the same time the British commander-in-chief has prepared the nation for a heavy casualty list by saying:

"Our losses inevitably have been considerable, but they have not been out of proportion to the magnitude of the battle."

The Germans have continued to bombard the British lines incessantly all along the front. At the same time the big gun duels have increased along the French front, but whether these presage infantry assaults on a big scale cannot now be seen.

As soon as the German attacks ceased the British launched a series of powerful counter blows which won back for them a great amount of the advanced positions they had lost.

Fierce fighting attended these counter thrusts at some points, especially south of Cambrai where the Germans had quickly transformed some wrecked farm houses into blockhouses after their capture.

At every point where the British went forward they were appalled by the number of the German dead lying on the field. The whole forefield was littered with field gray corpses. That section of the ground lying along the Cambrai-Arras road proved especially fatal for the Germans for there the attacking columns were caught under machine gun fire from three sides and were mowed down in heaps.

On the ground flanking the Cambrai-Bapaume road there was violent fighting. In that district the British troops so distinguished themselves that their gallantry was pointed out by Field Marshal Haig in his official dispatches.

Special War Lectures.

The educational committee of the Woman's Home Defense Committee of Ulster county is arranging to have a series of lectures given in this city, with the view to bringing before the people of Kingston such facts regarding the war situation as should be known and taken to heart by each and every one of us. They hope to have the first lecture here on April 4, but further announcement of this date, the lecture and topic will appear in the near future in The Freeman. The lectures will be held in the high school.

Although attacked by overwhelming forces, after being battered by heavy artillery fire, the British held their ground, even moving out into the forefield to meet their enemies instead of remaining in their trenches.

However, the gallantry of the British along the whole line was such that Field Marshal Haig himself said there would be difficulty in picking out any single force that had distinguished itself above the others along the fifty-mile front of attack.

The magnitude of the German assaults were under-estimated at first but the official reports that are coming from the front now show that tremendous numbers of men were used. One report said that the Germans used nearly 250,000 men in the initial phase of the drive between the Sene river and the Oise river on Thursday.

The bulk of these soldiers were thrust forward northwest and southwest of Cambrai where the Germans made their greatest effort.

Altogether the Germans used more than 400,000 men in their grand assault on Wednesday, holding many more troops in reserve. The number of guns employed in the preparation for the drive was under-estimated also. It is believed that the Germans along had from 6,000 to 8,000 cannon massed between the Scarpe river and Vendhuile.

The Germans do not make any extensive claims of ground gained although they claim the capture of more than 15,000 British prisoners and 200 guns.

(These figures were contained in an official statement issued by the German war office last night.)

A renewal of the German attacks was expected momentarily at the time this dispatch was written.

Washington, March 23.—The British official report announcing that the German hordes had broken through the British defense west of St. Quentin forcing the withdrawal of General Haig's men to their prepared secondary defense while a disappointment to officials here in Washington was not a cause of serious worry. It had already been pointed out by officials of the general staff that the sheer weight of the German offensive might make necessary sacrifice of territory as it already had compelled the sacrifice of men and guns. There was, however, no doubt left in the minds of army officers that the battle on the western front is the culminating effort of the German forces.

It is now accepted as certain that the Kaiser and his chief advisers, von Hindenburg and von Ludendorff, have decided to stake all on this blow and that they will throw into it every available man. It may mean, officials here said, that the Supreme War Council's plans for utilization of reserves from other points will be called into use before the present drive is stopped.

However, army officers who are closely watching the situation in-

HALF OF ULSTER IS OVER ITS QUOTA.

The poll of Ulster county, on Friday night's reports in the Knights of Columbus War Fund drive, as completed by District Director W. R. McCord this morning, showed half the county to have passed its quota. Kingston city and five outside districts are now piling up surpluses above their allotments, while six towns have not yet passed their marks, according to the official district tally sheets. Two of these six, however—Marlborough and West Hurley—are known to have more than enough new contributions in hand, ready for a report tonight, which will absorb their deficits. The county report to noon today follows:

Town	Reported Last Night	Total to Date	In Excess of Quota	Short of Quota
Kingston	$1,433.85	$28,836.07	$5,136.07
East Kingston	256.75	1,568.25	68.25

Savkill		46.50		143.50
West Hurley		245.00		55.00
Totals, Ulster county, outside of Kingston	$2,086.85	$18,542.49	$3,706.74	$1,964.25
Ulster, including Kingston	$3,520.70	$47,378.56	$8,842.81

Thus six communities in the county, including Kingston, have exceeded their quotas to a total excess of $8,842.81, while six other communities are short an aggregate of $1,964.25 of reaching their quotas. The net over-subscription for the county is thus $6,878.56.

Two towns went "over the top" in their last night's reports, East Kingston and Phoenicia, while Marlborough's report for the night put her within $15 of the goal. West Hurley also has more than enough in hand to cover the $55 needed to reach its mark, but held no meeting last night and hence could make no formal report.

In reporting from Phoenicia, the Rev. Joseph B. Scully announced that the organization there would have at least $400 more. Phoenicia's $1,000 was considered very doubtful at the beginning of the drive. Of the $1,200 reported from Saugerties last night, Chairman Lawrence M. Kenny reported that over $1,000 had come from the Italian of the Glasco section—the most surprising contribution in that region. Saugerties' total in the present drive exceeds the total for the Red Cross fund of last year, which was $5,800.

GERMAN PRISONERS REVOLT IN SIBERIA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Tokio, March 23.—Eighty thousand German prisoners of war, formerly prisoners of the Russians, have captured the great fortified city of Irkutsk, capital of the province of that name in Siberia, according to official dispatches received here today.

The dispatches gave no details. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

The Germans are organizing a force of 100,000 men in Siberia, according to the dispatches. The 30,000 men who occupied Irkutsk comprised two picked corps of 40,000 men each.

War Minister Oshima, in commenting on the situation in Siberia, declared:

"The supplies at Vladivostok are safe so far. Japan is investigating now the activities of the war prisoners."

The emperor has returned to the capital and with the arrival of the elder statesmen what is regarded as one of the most important councils ever held, will be opened.

Tokio, March 23.—Eighty thousand and Germans, formerly war prisoners of the Russians, have captured the great fortified city of Irkutsk, capital of the province of that name in Siberia, according to official dispatches received here today.

The dispatches gave no details. It is not known whether there was any loss of life.

The Germans are organizing a force of 160,000 men in Siberia, according to the dispatches. The 80,000 men who occupied Irkutsk comprised two picked corps of 40,000 men each.

War Minister Oshima, in commenting on the situation in Siberia, declared:

"The supplies at Vladivostok are safe so far. Japan is investigating now the activities of the war prisoners."

"The emperor has returned to the capital and with the arrival of the older statesmen who is regarded as one of the most important councils ever held, will be opened."

FINAL WARNING TO FOOD VIOLATORS

Special Notice to All Hotels, Restaurants, Lunch Rooms and Lunch
Wagons That They Must Comply
With Food Regulations.

Request has been sent from
Charles E. Treman of Ithaca, N. Y., of the federal food board, to each
deputy of the state to have investigation made in his county to ascertain if all hotels, restaurants and lunch
rooms are observing the wheatless
and meatless days.

The penalty for the violation of these rules is that the federal food administration will shut off the supplies of the violator and close his place of business for at least a month. This was done in New York city and practically every person agreed to abide by the rules of the administration.

This is a word of warning from the local food administrator that if there are any who are not abiding by the rules they may fall in line before the investigation is made by the state authorities.

FINAL WARNING TO FOOD VIOLATORS

Special Notice to All Hotels, Restaurants, Lunch Rooms and Lunch
Wagons That They Must Comply
With Food Regulations.

Request has been sent from
Charles E. Treman of Ithaca, N. Y.,
of the federal food board, to each
deputy of the state to have investigation made in his county to ascertain
if all hotels, restaurants and lunch
rooms are observing the wheatless
and meatless days.

The penalty for the violation of
these rules is that the federal food
administration will shut off the supplies of the violator and close his place of business for at least a month. This was done in New York city and practically every person
agreed to abide by the rules of the administration.

This is a word of warning from the local food administrator that if there are any who are not abiding by the rules they may fall in line before the
investigation is made by the state authorities.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 23, 1918.

Publication by the English Admiralty of figures showing the tonnage of vessels sunk by submarines and mines since the beginning of the war had the double purpose of refuting exaggerated German claims of submarine success and more particularly of spurring up the people of England and America to a realization of the danger that still impends through inactivity. Ostensibly, there have been many people who have hidden their heads and imagined that no one would notice that they were not doing their part in winning the war. The greatest danger to a nation at war is the overconfidence which breeds carelessness and disregard of essentials. The greatest essential at the present time is ship construction whereby our soldiers and supplies and munitions which must accompany them may be transported overseas. There is a tendency among some Americans to regard the war merely as an opportunity for holding up everyone for higher prices and profits. The extensive powers conferred by Congress on the Government gives the Government a restraining hand which may be exercised for the benefit of the Government itself and the general consumer but the power of drastic action needed to require men connected with shipbuilding to do their part the same as every other class of labor is doing apparently is lacking. Against a total tonnage of 11,827,572 destroyed since the war began, there has been a mercantile shipbuilding output of only 6,606,274 tons. "Any estimate for the future," says the British Admiralty statement, "must depend wholly on the determination of employers and men in the shipyards and marine engineering establishments." While other classes of labor are straining every effort to make their contribution to win the war, shall the shipbuilders play into the hands of the Kaiser?

Nothing indicates so sharply the radical inroads which have been made on amusements by the motion pictures as the leasing of the Metropolitan Opera House in Manhattan for moving pictures during the summer months. Opera houses of that character the world over have a distinctiveness possessed by no other place of amusement, they are regarded as the home of the best music and each such home up to this time has been surrounded by a little halo which nobody cared to remove by substituting an amusement or recreation that might be claimed to be "just as good." When the motion picture season for which the Metropolitan has been leased closes next fall, the place will again become the home of the most alluring attractions that the art of music affords, but the fact that new use is to be made of the opera house for the summer indicates either that the high class homes of music must lose their exclusiveness because of the competition of the cheaper form of entertainment or that the owners figure they might as well receive a return for their investment every month instead of only part of the year. While motion pictures and vaudeville have been combined to afford a varied program, there will continue to be many playhouses which will be devoted exclusively to dramatic productions because there always is a demand for that form of entertainment. The higher forms of musical entertainment are not as common and consequently the season is more restricted. It seems odd that an opera house built for and devoted to the most expensive form of public entertainment should in its idle months be turned over to the form of entertainment which is least expensive and most popular.

PATRIOTS OR PLUTOCRATS.

The greatest trouble with Scott Nearing, formerly a professor in the University of Pennsylvania, who has been indicted in the Federal court under the Espionage Act, and of men like him is that they place too little value on the mental ability of the American people and lay too great stress on their own importance. Nearing is one of the most blatant agitators for peace at any price and his line of argument seems to be that whoever does not willingly wallow in the mire in order to afford a stepping place for German military feet is blocking the progress of civilization. According to his theory, the war is the result of plutocratic effort but he becomes mixed in his logic and while deprecating the Liberty Loan as a club with which to coerce workers, he makes a full fledged plute out of every holder of a Liberty Bond. "The plutocracy did not subscribe themselves, in any large degree," he says, "but they did use every effort to cajole the common people of the United States into subscribing." LaFollette ranks high in the Nearing estimation, and he is sure that if American democracy wins its fight with the plutocracy, future generations of school children will revere LaFollette and the other "willful" opponents of President Wilson's war policies as "patriots and heroes." Men who have the exaggerated ego of Nearing, LaFollette and their ilk ought to be required to do something useful in return for the protection which the country and Government affords them.

While conscription of men for military service is a long-established American principle, their conscription for useful productive purposes has not yet been attempted. The nearest approach we have to such conscription is the punishment of anarchists and traitors by confinement in prisons and penitentiaries where they perform work of some kind. They want everyone else to work to produce wealth but they object to being compelled to become producers themselves because the Government, in their view, being plutocratic in its nature, they would not be producing anything useful for the Brotherhood of Man but would be only working for plutocrats. To the ordinary citizen, work by the Nearing type for the Brotherhood of Man is generally termed rank laziness. Whenever a man decides that the rest of the world owes him a living for which he will not work, he either becomes an anarchist or preaches about the Brotherhood of Man or roasts the plutocrats.

Ye Editor's Garden.

We planted a large bed of peas, likewise lettuce, in our garden, before yesterday, which was the 20th. The ground was in fine condition. We never before got peas planted so early a date, the peas always plant them as early as possible and find they come up better than it planted some later, when the ground becomes somewhat soggy from being beaten down by rain.—New Palis Independent.

MUSICAL COMEDY MADE HIT.

"Furs and Frills" Was All That a Musical Comedy Should Be.

"Furs and Frills," with Richard Carle as the leading comedian, furnished plenty of wholesome amusement to a good sized audience at the Kingston Opera House Friday night and proved to be the best musical comedy produced here this season. The entire company was made up of artists who understood just how far fun-making may be carried to insure the best results. The lines are clean and the lyrics harmonious and attractive. The chorus not only possessed good looks but good voices also, and the costumes were new and artistic. Carle and the other comedians thoroughly understand the art of refined humor, Carle's personal ability in that line manifesting itself so spontaneously that he frequently convulsed the members of the company itself, to the great delight of the audience. Of the songs, repeated encores were given for "You Can't Take It With You," "You Die," and "It's Easy to Lie to Your Husband." The dancing was of an unusually high class.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Go to it! Even an electric button won't accomplish anything unless it is pushed. When men and women have their ideas and work in common, the world will be helped along with something like electric speed.

SIMPLE DESSERTS.

To omit desserts entirely is rather too much of a strain on our loyalty, for we must remember that a pleasant meal aids digestion, and if we would keep well to be able to do our work in the world, our food must be attractive as well as wholesome. The children would be disappointed to be deprived of their dessert, and as this is the time when a bit of candy which has been denied between meals may safely be given, or any other sweet which we are teaching them to eat more sparingly of.

Butter Scotch Mold.—Cook together one cupful of brown sugar and two table-spoonsful of shortening, using care not to allow it to burn. Pour this into three cupfuls of scalding milk and cook until the butter scotch is melted, then pour it over two table-spoonsful of gelatine soaked in one-fourth of a cupful of milk. Stir until dissolved and begin to stiffen, then add a cupful of boiling rice. Mix well and pour into a mold.

Other attractive ways of serving rice for those who object to the old-fashioned rice puddings, may be made by lining a mold with sliced fruit and packing it with rice, pressing it down until firm. Serve with either cream or fruit sauces.

Prune Dumplings.—Take a cupful of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, mix with good rich milk to make a drop batter. Grease small cups, drop in a little batter, then add a spoonful of stewed prunes with some of the juice, add another spoonful of the batter and put the cups into a pan with boiling water, enough to steam them without boiling into the cups. Steam well covered for 15 minutes. Serve with prune juice and cream. A baking powder biscuit dough may be made, rolled out and covered with chopped stewed prunes, a little spice if liked, and a few chopped nuts. Roll up, cut in small rolls, place in a baking pan to bake. Serve hot with cream or fruit juice.

Bible Class Met.

The Men's Bible Class of the Fair Street Reformed Church held an important meeting Friday evening at the home of Henry Woolsey on Washington avenue, which was largely attended. ## SOLDIERS WORRY ABOUT HOME FOLKS

Also Wonder Over "Those Darn Lies" About a Drunken Army—
Highlights of Rural France Pictured—Wants to See "The Big Show."

Q. M. C. A. P. O. 765, A. E. F.
Feb. 27.—I had a fine letter written and sent to me when I received a bunch of letters from home and so I will write all over again. Up until today I had no positive knowledge that you knew I was over here, now I know. I received a letter a few days ago from a girl in Saugerties, which was mailed January 25 and she mentioned reading of our trip so I sort of guessed she had heard, and if she had you also must have. Well, I feel better now that I know you have ceased to fret and worry.

Yesterday I received a card from Miss Walton. She says she finally figured out that it must be me. She remembered being my algebra teacher in K. A. At first she thought it might be someone else by the same name.

No, I have not seen Reading, having come another way from here. Neither did I see M. Girard. I may still get a chance to see him if I get a pass for a few days. I hope after I have been over here for 6 or 8 months to be allowed to go and see some of the country up where the big show is. From what I saw of northern France I think it must be fine in summer, but in winter—well, I am quite well satisfied.

There are so many boys here that you often meet some one from Frisco while you miss the fellow from home. I am daily meeting men from all over the states but as yet there are few men from the east here but I am looking every day for a regiment to march in composed of boys from our old place in the Empire state, they will seem like old friends. I can almost tell what state a man comes from from his dialect. Texas, New York, Kentucky, Frisco, Montana, every state has a peculiar saying all its own.

Why those darn lies? People seem to be making people worry and getting selfish stories. We certainly are not limited to one letter a week. There is a blue letter which goes to the base censor and may be used for mailing several addressed letters at a time or just one as you desire. Only one blue envelope is allowed a man each week, but other letters are not limited. Where that story started I can't imagine. The pamphlet also is another type of matter which seems principally to be designed to make you people back home worry. There is some truth to it, but darn little. There are about the usual things as you will find under similar circumstances any place you go.

(This refers to charges that troops were demoralized by drink and immorality.)

I see Enlist quite often, for I go out where he is stationed, for gas, etc. He is getting fat and is looking fine. I go out two or three times a week on the trucks and am seeing quite a bit of the country.

The remainder of my first letter seems available at this point and I have to go and figure up my "gas and oil" accounts now, so will slip in the pages. There are some duplications, but you can understand, I have no fine desk or pens to use so writing is sort of difficult.

You see I am getting some joy rides on our 3-ton Packard "touring car." It is a good thing to break up the work and to enjoy the trip. Every time I ride through the country I see a great many interesting things and the more I see the more I think France has been a great country to live in. That is in the country out here, especially in the winter. But I can't "see" life in the city here any more than in America. But the low, picturesque stone houses with their fine gardens, evergreens, and parks are great, and I think I should like to live out here in one of them if I only could speak the language. Some of the places, even now, are wonderful. They all give one the impression of age and their construction seems so solid and permanent. I imagine they are all very old. Just now I can't recall having seen a wooden house in all of France that I have seen so far, stone, white stone everywhere.

As to my French, well, I can say "good" and "no," "how much," "thank you" and order a meal in a restaurant, get a match and if it is a pretty girl and she takes plenty of time in asking me, and I take plenty of time in answering. I can tell her the time. I can manage to buy things and that is all I am sure of. Oh, I can understand some things pretty well but don't get enough practice. There are so many Americans and French who speak English and we don't have to depend on ourselves so we learn slowly. Thrown in among the French and made to either understand or do without things we would soon learn. Well it is nearly March first and I am looking forward to the spring. Soon my four months will be up and I will be entitled to my seven days' furlough in the mountains. I wish I could get to see M. Girard then or trade it for an excursion to the sectors where the big guns boom without halting. It sounds good to hear, at a distance, when you feel safe but I wonder how it is out there on the fringe of No Man's Land.

Yesterday was wash day. I washed an O. D. shirt, socks, towels, underclothing, handkerchiefs, etc. Today was sewing day in the army. I sewed socks on "Jake's" blouse, sewed the sleeve in my blouse, fixed the lining and sewed up a ripped legging. That is going some I guess.

So the banquet of the Freeman Social Club was a success. Well, I don't know if my stomach could stand much of that now or not. I am afraid I would eat about ten pounds and still be hungry. Beans, bread, coffee and bacon are much more filling.

I saw Enlist the other day while I was on one of my trips. He looked well and happy. I told the people I am sorry I have been unable to write, that is unable to keep them in reading matter, for I have written, but, of course, the trip over caused a break in mail for me.

I guess I worried about as much as you during the month of January. I worried over your worrying for I knew you would worry when you received no message. Well, I know now you have received direct word from me, or at least I hope so. The next few days, mail from the states will tell, and when I receive a letter with the P. O. number on it—well, I will feel fine.

I am getting stout. Everyone notices it. I am going on toward 150 and still in the race. I guess sea air agrees with me all right, and mild weather, too.

Darn it, how I would like to put on a pair of skates and hit it up for a mile. I'll bet I could get over the ground quicker than I ever did before. I'll say army life and army food keeps a fellow in trim. That is if he wants it to. There is nothing like good out-door work, rough, healthy food and clean living, plenty of sleep and exercise, and say, that is all wrapped up in a little package ready for delivery when you go in the army. The rest is up to you.

(The writer was The Freeman's censor, and he gives some valuable technical advice to the one who is trying to fill his place.)

This is all a guess as to your trouble and is talking over a great distance. If I could see a negative I could tell better but—I am 3,000 odd miles away. However, you are getting results even if not very good. It is interest you want to awaken, and I guess the people are waking up from what I see in the papers I have received. I ought to have taken someone in and taught them the trade. You don't get much time for yourself with all the extra work.

I guess I will quit now for the cold is creeping in as the fire gets low. It is very damp and foggy so a little cold goes a great way.

I hope this will find you and all the folks and friends in the states in as good health as I am, and for goodness sake tell them to write once in a while.

FRED.

Play Was a Success.

The play, "Look Out For Paint," which was successfully given last week in St. James' M. E. Church, was repeated at school No. 6 on Friday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund of the school. There was a large attendance and the audience thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The Misses Marjorie Norwood and Frances Kellher took their parts in a most praiseworthy manner and fully earned the encores they received. Others who received special attention were Maurice Niles as the tramp, Louis Shaw as the good-natured boy, and Mrs. Minnie Prescott. A specialty feature which was introduced between the second and third acts was the solo, "Bring Me a Rose," by Miss Helen Freer, which was acted by Miss Freer and Mr. Niles. They were heartily encores. Thanks of the school are due to each of the participants in the entertainment and also to Buckley & Schryver for the use of planks for building the platform.

Qualified Explanation.

The teacher had asked the children to tell her something about giants, when one little boy blurted out: "A giant is an awfully—great—oh, big, big man—" and then a pause and, fearing some one would think he believed in them, quickly added: "But most everybody knows there isn't any!"

S. COHEN'S SONS, 331 Wall Street
WILLIAM O'REILLY, 530 Broadway
K. OF C. BUILDING, - Broadway

AT SCHOOL NO. 7.

Entertainment to Aid in Joining Red Cross Auxiliary.

School No. 7 was the scene of a record breaking audience and a fine entertainment Friday evening when more than enough money was raised to enroll the school among the various Red Cross Junior Auxiliaries of the city. The hall where the entertainment was given was so crowded that there was scarcely standing room left for a small child, and while many had to stand throughout the entire evening and many more could not see the performers at all, they could hear, and for the sake of the children and the cause all took the situation in the best of good nature. The program opened with a violin and piano selection played with much of artistic musical merit by Miss Mollott and Miss Eckert. This was followed by a brave recital of "Your Flag and My Flag," given by Robert Herzog. Then came a sweet little song by Donald and Ruth Morris that greatly pleased the audience. A drill, "Come Play With Me," by little folks of the first and second grades, was well given and heartily applauded. With spirit and a clear, strong voice, Westbrook Stolle recited, "The Twentieth Century Paul Revere," greatly to the delight of his audience, every one of whom could hear this speaker.

James Tinnie, in Scotch costume, was given a hearty welcome as he appeared to sing, "Why I Wear the Kilt." Mr. Tinnie generously gave several other selections throughout the evening, every one of which was heartily applauded. Mr. Tinnie kindly responding with an encore to the last number.

"Hoover's Goin' to Get You" was so well recited by Hayden Raynor as to call forth enthusiastic applauding by the entire audience. A very pretty quaint drill, "In Grandma's Time," was nicely given by pupils of the third grade in costume. Then the music lovers in the audience were given a treat in the piano selection, "Tianka," played charmingly by Ottilla Riccobono. A recitation "Hymn of Freedom," given by Mrs. Harry Van Wagenen elicited the heartiest applause. She also gave another pleasing selection with piano accompaniment. Five boys followed, giving a clever Revolutionary sketch, "The Boston Boys," in a realistic manner. "The Little Red Cross Helper," as recited by Elizabeth De Witt, delighted everyone. The final recitation of the evening was "The Flag of Freedom," given in a manly fashion and so all could hear and enjoy it, by Joe Forman. The program closed with "Star Spangled Banner," given finely by sixth grade pupils. Principal Coons then heartily thanked the audience for their attendance, and expressed regret that all could not have been made more comfortable, as had it been expected that the audience would be so large, the performance would have been held in the high school. He also announced that there was a plate of tea cream waiting for every person in the audience, every member of which would be comfortably served in the grade rooms. After the serving of the refreshments, dancing was enjoyed for some time; excellent music being given by Miss Elliott and Miss Eckert.

SOLDIERS, 40 POLICE, 18

That Was the Score of the Famous Game Between Cops and Company M Friday at Armory—Fair Sized Crowd Present.

Company M's selected ball tossers simply slaughtered the members of the police force at indoor baseball Friday evening at the state armory winning the game easily by a score of 40 to 18. The main credit for winning the game for the soldiers must be allotted first to Corporal Charles Davis whose pitching was of Grade A brand, and also to the timely hitting of the soldier boys who fell on Sergeant Phinney of the police force in the first inning with a dull and deadly thud and when the smoke cleared away the soldiers had piled up ten runs.

From then on the cops were put to rout by the soldiers who kept up their timely hitting. Phinney, like the hero he is, steadfastly maintained his position in the box and did not let a little matter of forty runs faze him. In fact it was remarkable how cool and collected Chief Wood and his cops were. This was due some said to the fact that they all wore their summer brand of underwear of a certain well advertised brand.

Officer Fout covered himself with glory in the last of the ninth when he was the first man up by striking out. This misdemeanor was laid to the fact that Officer Fout was thinking deeply and doing some close detective work on the chicken coop robbery the other night on Highland avenue which he is investigating. While thinking of the solution Corporal Davis hurried three beauties across the plate and Officer Fout retired to the side lines and sat down.

"Jim" Simpson on third base and Sergeant Hanley on first with Officer Martin on second and the graceful Kuehn at short formed an able combination but their signal system was not working correctly. Chief Wood son of Louis J. Miller recently spent 30-day sick leave at his home in this city. Private Miller is formerly of Co. M, but is now with Company B, 167th U. S. Inf., on detached service with the Wadsworth camouflage school where he is rapidly making good.

In center field kept his men keyed up but when the soldiers fell on Phinney's curves the key was lost in the shuffle. Welch behind the bat for the cops covered himself with glory. Connelly out in left field got everything that did not get away from him. The same may be said of the other cops they fielded exceptionally well when they did not miss the ball.

Owing to the exceptionally good twirling of Davis the cops did not have a look-in until the latter half of the game when they increased their score somewhat. The stickwork of the soldiers was also good—too good for the cops.

Following the game dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Just how much was realized for the Red Cross by the game is not known as yet.

The line-up of the two teams and score by innings follows:
Cops—Connelly, left field; Phinney, pitcher; Hanley, first base; Kuehn, short stop; Simpson, third base; Wood, center field; Martin, second base; Fout, right field; Welch, catcher.

Company M—Behrens, left field; Preston, right field; Mullen, first base; Davis, pitcher; Seib, center field; Reynolds, third base; Mergendahl, catcher; Hagenlocker, second base; Gerhardt, short stop.

Following is the score:
Cops—9 2 9 1 3 0 4 2 6—18
Co. M—10 8 5 6 3 5 1 x—40

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. Walter N. Gill, surrogate of Ulster county, notice is hereby given, according to law, to all persons having claims against Mary Whitney, late of the city of Kingston, county of Ulster, deceased, to present the same with vouchers in support thereof, to the undersigned, Mary Townsend, the executrix of the estate of said deceased, at the office of Frank W. Brooks, attorney for said city of Kingston, on or before the 20th day of August, 1918.
Dated February 15, 1918.

MARY TOWNSEND,
Executrix of the Last Will and Testament of Mary Whitney, deceased.
Frank W. Brooks, Attorney, 44 Main St., Kingston, N. Y.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Charles W. Griffith of this city, formerly of the town of Olive, has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court. The testator gives his property to his wife, Phebe Griffith, whom he appoints executrix. The will was executed October 20, 1895, and witnessed by DeWitt C. Davis and Levi Elmendorf. The value of the estate is $200 personal property. Joseph M. Fowler appeared for the executrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Peter Winchell of the town of Olive were issued to Clyde A. Winchell and Angeline Winchell. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $700. Senator Charles W. Walton appeared for the administrators. A petition for the judicial settlement of the account of John H. Reid as trustee for Emily K. Graham under the will of Alice E. Christie was filed and a citation was issued returnable April 30. A. S. Embler of Walden appeared for the trustee.

Responsibility and the Will.
Responsibility strengthens the will. Many a weak man when put into a position of responsibility has made good and astonished his associates by the exhibition of qualities that they never imagined he possessed, and that probably would have lain dormant but for responsibility brought them to the surface. There is no great mystery about this. A position of responsibility forces a man to make quick decisions, and this training naturally strengthens the will. There is still another reason why responsibility develops a man's will. If an individual is holding down a position of trust, he is naturally looked up to by his subordinates. This puts him on his mettle, and he uses all his resources in the determination to prove worthy of that trust. Responsibility has also been known to cure men of the drink habit for the same reason.—Dr. James Walsh in American Magazine.

Gardens in Japan and China.
The garden, per se, in both Japan and China is most frequently to be found in the grounds of some public building or temple. The Chinese garden is as reversed to our eyes as their writing, for it consists chiefly of water. On a pool or pond they develop their wonderful aquatic plants, the lotus, lilies of myriad color and variety and brilliant foliage specimens. In addition to this the walks are sometimes bordered with flowering plants in pots or jardinières, which are changed and shifted from time to time. Of these the favorites are such flowers as the peony and others which are believed to possess medicinal properties. But the essential of the Chinese gardener is to display his aquatic floriculture.

King of the Forest!
The mahogany tree well deserves the title, "king of the forest," because of its great wood value, and its beauty and statelyness. It does not always develop a trunk as large as some of its tropical neighbors, but often it reaches a greater height. One hundred feet is not unusual. The West Indies, Mexico, Latin America, parts of Southern Florida and the Bahamas are its native haunts. For many years the supply of mahogany seemed almost inexhaustible, but now there is grave danger of the output becoming less and less because of the scarcity of mature trees. Other woods are being substituted for real mahogany. A tree three feet in diameter is probably not less than 200 years old, indicating the slow growth of the species.

Jerusalem's History.
At the time of the birth of Christ, in which the city of Jerusalem was situated, was a possession or dependency of Rome. In the year 70 A. D., about thirty-five years after the death of Christ, Jerusalem was captured by the Romans under Emperor Titus and was destroyed. It was rebuilt by the Romans and held successfully for varying periods by them, by the Persians, by the Mohammedans, by the Crusaders and by the Turks.

Mirrors for Household Decoration.
They say that a man's first thought on entering a room is, "Where is there a place to sit down?" and a woman's first thought is, "Where is there a mirror?" It has been woman's thought from time immemorial, for from time immemorial there have been mirrors. It is only since the beginning of the sixteenth century that mirrors have been used as articles of household furniture and decoration, and there are few women of the present day who do not realize and make use of their artistic value in adorning their homes.

The Appeal Is Still Urgent

It comes with every Letter from the Boys in Active Service. They say Woolen Garments, Sweaters, especially Socks are Needed for Health and Comfort the Year Round.

Worsted Knitting Yarn of Highest Quality

THE Patriotic Yarn Association was organized to supply the women of this country with the best worsted knitting yarn in the market at the lowest possible cost, allowing only for the expense of distribution, with the understanding that they will make up garments for men in the service of the United States and her Allies. We desire to reach the individual knitter direct, that she may be unrestricted in the disposition of her finished garment, provided only that she knit solely for the above-mentioned cause and give her written word of honor to that effect. We also gladly help out small organizations of recognized reputation working for patriotic purposes.

We will take care of requests for yarn in the order in which they are received, and advise that you act promptly to avoid disappointment. The supply is limited.

SHOPPING FOR MONEY

By HILDEGARDE HAWTHORNE of the Vigilantes.

"Well, what are you shopping for today?"

It was Monday morning, and Mr. Smith looked over the top of his paper at his wife, who was jotting down items on a little pad at the other end of the breakfast table. In a few minutes Smith would have to make a jump to get his train, but he and Martha always had a little fun together that morning in the week over the bargains she was planning.

"None of your teasing," smiled Martha. "This time I'm going for a real bargain. I'm going to shop for money." "Smith may have liked to play at teasing his wife, but he knew mighty well what an excellent housekeeper she was, and how wisely she spent the money he made. Their two children were as well dressed, and they got as good a table as their neighbors', but their bills were a great deal smaller, and Smith was able to tuck away a nice sum each month. Yes, Martha was a good bargainer and a careful shopper. She watched the market and bought what was low and good, bought to advantage, and bought real values.

"I know a bargain when I see one," continued Martha. "and money is a bargain just now. So I'm going to buy some—just as much as we can manage to pay for."

"Buy money?" Smith allowed his voice to do all the expressing it could.

"Well, what else would you call it?" his wife inquired. "Look here, Dick. Seems to me when you can buy five dollars for four dollars and twelve cents, that's about as good a bargain as we are likely to run across."

"Who's going to sell you five dollars for anything less than five dollars?" Smith wanted to know.

"The government!" And there was that note of triumph in Martha's voice that the best of women cannot still when they score one on mere man.

"You mean these War Savings Certificates, eh?"

"Only these and nothing more," chimed his wife. "I've been figuring, and I can see how we can manage to buy one of these bargain fives every week. Our two meanness days a week will do most of it, and the best of it is that we shan't only be doing a mighty good thing for ourselves, but we shall be helping the old U. S. in this war. It's being made mighty easy for us. I shall buy the stamps each day from the money I save marketing, and at the end of the week I'll have five dollars' worth on my card, and it won't have cost me more than four twelve-cents."

"You have to hold on to your certificates quite some time to get the whole five."

"What of that? We'll get it, and if we have to sell out before we get all the five, and I always believe in looking at the damp gray side of the cloud as well as at the golden lining, we shan't lose a cent, and we'll gain whatever the interest amounts to at the time we sell. Besides, though we get a Liberty Bond for each of the children, I want them to have a steady interest in saving, and in saving for their country. They are going to help me get this needed sum each week, and they know just what it's to be for. They are as excited about it as can be. Nollie volunteered at once to give up 10 cents a week out of her allowance, and Billy said he's going to run errands for Mrs. Robinson for a quarter a week, and give me that—until I'm big enough to be a soldier."

The two smiled at each other. "I'll have to come in on this, too," Smith declared, looking at his watch and getting to his feet. "I can do a bit of saving on my own account, and we'll see who will win out in this little money shopping scheme of yours. Just as soon as we all recognize that every 10 cents saved counts on the side of victory, and that every cent we do save can't be put to better use or be more safely secured than in just that way, just so soon this country will have solved its problems, and turned from being the waster among the nations to thrift and economy. After which words of wisdom I leave you to your machinations."

Martha laughed. "I knew you'd approve, Dick. And it's really going to be the finest training for the youngsters, as well as a good investment."

Concrete Culverts Best.

Concrete culverts are, without doubt, the best to use in point of durability and cost of maintenance. There are several reinforced and plain concrete pipes manufactured in most states which make very satisfactory culverts.

Don't Disturb Sow.

After farrowing the sow should not be disturbed, and if she lies quietly for 10 or 12 hours, so much the better. When she wants anything she will go to the trough for it.

It is an error to say, said the judge, that we are not fighting the German people, for they are as firmly behind the German emperor and the army staff as we are behind the movement to raise this fund. What Father Hickey would call the Lutheran schism is after all only skin deep and movements like this show that the whole world is united to conquer the common enemy of mankind.

In our hour of great emergency we have come together.

Senator Walton, in a wonderfully eloquent speech, paid a tribute to the American spirit of liberty and to the efficiency of the organization that was raising the K. of C. fund, saying that if the same efficiency existed in our army "over there" as has been shown here in this campaign, they, too, would soon go "over the top."

With enthusiasm undiminished and zeal unabated by the fact that already Kingston's share in the K. of C. War Fund is already pledged, the campaign workers met in the K. of C. Home Friday evening to make reports and listen to addresses by Mayor Canfield, Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, John W. Eckert, Senator Walton and Judge Clearwater. The meeting opened with the singing of "America," and closed with "The Star Spangled Banner" and the audience was so wrought up at all times that it cheered and applauded everything said and done, even to the collapse of a chair under the heavy-weight theologian at the end of Mr. Eckert's address and Judge Clearwater's commendation of the speaker. The speaker opened with a deserved tribute to the zeal and organizing ability of John A. Mahar, whose interest in other campaigns for the soldiers had been a large element in their success. Kingston today is nearer the ideal municipality than ever before because this campaign has shown that as individuals we are ready to sacrifice ourselves for the public welfare. There has been some criticism that the Y. M. C. A. and the K. of C. were providing too much recreation and too little religion for the soldiers, but this is a means to an end and to socialize helps to religionize. The soldiers need both.

The Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, pastor of the Roundout Presbyterian Church, began his address, "Prayer and the War," explaining that he did not do this, not because he did not count Father Hickey a friend, but to make special mention of the local head of the great church that is the head and soul of this movement. He had not, he said, asked the consent of John Calvin, John Knox or Martin Luther or any of the old-time worthies to appear on a platform of union movement, but he felt that in a war that was not denominational, but one in which the evil forces were arrayed against the good forces of the whole world, Catholic Austria and Protestant Prussia have allied themselves with the unspeakable Turk to dominate the world and it is a good thing for Protestant and Catholic to unite against this combination of evils.

Referring to the destruction of cathedrals, the crushing of liberty, the sowing of seeds of dissension, Dr. Ellis said, "We are not Protestants or Catholics when we face these things—we are men who have an obligation to Almighty God to fulfill." In closing he eulogized Cardinal Mercier and President Wilson.

"Our Catholic cardinal and our President," said Dr. Ellis, "are both fighting the same battle, and they are both suffering in the trenches and showing the need of recreation in the rest camps to keep our soldiers fit and able to punish the Prussian atrocity for the desolation it has spread. He expressed satisfaction that this campaign had demonstrated that men of all creeds can get behind a great movement and carry it to success and urged that the organization that had accomplished so much be kept up to carry the Liberty Loan campaign in June and other campaigns to come, to the same successful conclusion.

Judge Clearwater spoke of the spirit of unity that had caused him, a heretic since the time of the reformation, to stand with the Catholics in the work of the Knights of Columbus. It was appalling, he said, for a man whose ancestors had fought behind the dykes of Holland against Philip the Second and the Duke of Alba to have to speak to an audience such as this in aid of a fund to defeat a Protestant nation that has been guilty in this war of outrages greater than any of the past.

The judge related his experience in attending a service in the Antwerp Cathedral at which Cardinal Mercier officiated, "a man whose voice and intonation carried soul and peace to even a heretical mind," and told of the arrogance of the soldiers in Berlin, where he had repeatedly seen generals in uniform, walking at ease, so that they completely occupied the sidewalk, brushing the wives and daughters of the citizens into the gutter.

It is an error to say, said the judge, that we are not fighting the German people, for they are as firmly behind the German emperor and the army staff as we are behind the movement to raise this fund. What Father Hickey would call the Lutheran schism is after all only skin deep and movements like this show that the whole world is united to conquer the common enemy of mankind.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 23, 1918.

Publication by the English Admiralty of figures showing the tonnage of vessels sunk by submarines and mines since the beginning of the war has the double purpose of refuting exaggerated German claims of submarine success and more particularly of spurring up the people of England and America to a realization of the danger that still impends through inactivity. Ostrich-like, there have been many people who have hidden their heads and imagined that no one would notice that they were not doing their part in winning the war. The greatest danger to a nation at war is the overconfidence which breeds carelessness and disregard of essentials. The greatest essential at the present time is ship construction whereby our soldiers and supplies and munitions which must accompany them may be transported overseas. There is a tendency among some Americans to regard the war merely as an opportunity for holding up everyone for higher prices and profits. The extensive powers conferred by Congress on the Government gives the Government a restraining hand which may be exercised for the benefit of the Government itself and the general consumer but the power of drastic action needed to require men connected with shipbuilding to do their part the same as every other class of labor is doing apparently is lacking. Against a total tonnage of 11,827,577 destroyed since the war began, there has been a mercantile shipbuilding output of only 6,606,274 tons. "Any estimate for the future," says the British Admiralty statement, "must depend wholly on the determination of employers and men in the shipyards and marine engineering establishments." While other classes of labor are straining every effort to make their contribution to win the war, shall the shipbuilders play into the hands of the Kaiser?

Nothing indicates so sharply the decadence of the motion picture on amusements by the motion pictures as the leasing of the Metropolitan Opera House in Manhattan for moving pictures during the summer months. Opera houses of that character the world over have a distinctiveness possessed by no other place of amusement, they are regarded as the home of the best music and each such home up to this time has been surrounded by a little halo which nobody cared to remove by substituting an amusement or recreation that might be claimed to be "just as good." When the motion picture season for which the Metropolitan has been leased closes next fall, the place will again become the home of the most alluring attractions that the art of music affords, but the fact that now use is to be made of the opera house for the summer indicates either that the high class homes of music must lose their exclusiveness because of the competition of the cheaper form of entertainment or that the owners figure they might as well receive a return for their investment every month instead of only part of the year. While motion pictures and vaudeville have been combined to afford a varied program, there will continue to be many playhouses which will be devoted exclusively to dramatic productions because there always is a demand for that form of entertainment. The higher forms of musical entertainment are not as common and consequently the season is more restricted. It seems odd that an opera house built for and devoted to the most expensive form of public entertainment should in its idle months be turned over to the form of entertainment which is least expensive and most popular.

PATRIOTS OR PLUTOCRATS.

The greatest trouble with Scott Nearing, formerly a professor in the University of Pennsylvania, who has been indicted in the Federal court under the Espionage Act, and of men like him is that they place too little value on the mental ability of the American people and lay too great stress on their own importance. Nearing is one of the most blatant agitators for peace at any price and his line of argument seems to be that whoever does not willingly wallow in the mire in order to afford a stepping place for German military feet is blocking the progress of civilization. According to his theory, the war is the result of plutocratic effort but he becomes mixed in his logic and while deprecating the Liberty Loan as a club with which to coerce workers, he makes a full fledged plate out of every holder of a Liberty Bond. "The plutocracy did not subscribe themselves, in any large degree," he says, "but they did use every effort to cajole the common people of the United States into subscribing." LaFollette ranks high in the Nearing estimation, and he is sure that if American democracy wins its fight with the plutocracy, future generations of school children will revere LaFollette and the other "willful" opponents of President Wilson's war policies as "patriots and heroes." Men who have the exaggerated ego of Nearing, LaFollette and their ilk ought to be required to do something useful in return for the protection which the country and Government affords them.

While conscription of men for military service is a long-established American principle, their conscription for useful productive purposes has not yet been attempted. The nearest approach we have to such conscription is the punishment of anarchists and traitors by confinement in prisons and penitentiaries where they perform work of some kind. They want everyone else to work to produce wealth but they object to being compelled to become producers themselves because the Government, in their view, being plutocratic in its nature, they would not be producing anything useful for the Brotherhood of Man but would be only working for plutocrats. To the ordinary citizen, work by the Nearing type for the Brotherhood of Man is generally termed rank laziness. Whenever a man decides that the rest of the world owes him a living for which he will not work, he either becomes an anarchist or preaches about the Brotherhood of Man or roasts the plutocrats.

Ye Editor's Garden.

We planted a large bed of peas, likewise lettuce, in our garden, day before yesterday, which was the 26th. The ground was in fine condition. We never before got peas planted as early a date, tho' we always plant them as early as possible and find they come up better than it planted some later, when the ground becomes somewhat soggy from being beaten down by rain.

MUSICAL COMEDY MADE HIT.

"Furs and Frills" Was All That a Musical Comedy Should Be.
"Furs and Frills," with Richard Carle as the leading comedian, furnished plenty of wholesome amusement to a good sized audience at the Kingston Opera House Friday night and proved to be the best musical comedy produced here this season. The entire company was made up of artists who understood just how far fun-making may be carried to insure the best results. The lines are clean and the lyrics harmonious and attractive. The chorus not only possessed good looks but good voices also, and the costumes were new and artistic. Carle and the other comedians thoroughly understand the art of refined humor. Carle's personal ability in that line manifesting itself so spontaneously that he frequently convulsed the members of the company itself, to the great delight of the audience. Of the songs, repeated encores were given for "You Can't Take It With You When You Die," and "It's Easy to Lie to Your Husband." The dancing was of an unusually high class.

Go to it! Even an electric button won't accomplish anything unless it is pushed. When men and women have their ideals and work in common, the world will be helped along with something like electric speed.

SIMPLE DESSERTS.

To omit desserts entirely is rather too much of a strain on our loyalty, for we must remember that a pleasant meal aids digestion, and if we would keep well to be able to do our work in the world, our food must be as attractive as well as wholesome. The children would be disappointed to be deprived of their dessert, and as this is the time when a bit of candy which has been denied between meals may safely be given, or any other sweet which we are teaching them to eat more sparingly of.

Butter Scotch Mold.—Cook together one cupful of brown sugar and two tablespoons of shortening, using care not to allow it to burn. Pour this in three cupfuls of scalding milk and cook until the butter scotch is melted, then pour it over two tablespoons of gelatine soaked in one-fourth of a cupful of milk. Stir until dissolved and begin to stiffen, then add a cupful of boiling rice. Mix well and pour into a mold.

Other attractive ways of serving rice for those who object to the old-fashioned rice puddings, may be made by lining a mold with sliced fruit and packing it with rice, pressing it down until firm. Serve with either cream or fruit sauces.

Prune Dumplings.—Take a cupful of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, mix with good rich milk to make a drop batter. Grease small cups, drop in a little batter, then add a spoonful of stewed prunes with some of the juice, add another spoonful of the batter and put the cups into a pan with boiling water, enough to steam them without boiling into the cups. Steam well covered for 15 minutes. Serve with prune juice and cream. A baking powder biscuit dough may be made, rolled out and covered with chopped stewed prunes, a little spice if liked, and a few chopped nuts. Roll up, cut in small rolls, place in a baking pan to bake. Serve hot with cream or fruit juice.

Report of Teachers' Committee.

The following report was submitted by the teachers' committee: To the Honorable, the Board of Education.

Gentlemen: Your teachers' committee would respectfully submit the following report.

Because of the falling off of attendance in the high school on account of the war, from over 900 in 1915 to an attendance of 704 during the month of February, 1918, with no prospect of an increase in the immediate future, your committee advises in favor of the discontinuance of a teacher in the department of English and one in the department of mathematics.

We announce the resignation of Miss May B. Demarest, teacher of mathematics, to take effect at the close of the current school year.

We call the attention of the board to the fact that Miss Marguerite Egan, fifth grade teacher of school No. 8, has been absent from duty several months on account of prolonged illness. Pending her recovery we recommend that the position be held open for her until the 20th of August and that if at that time she is not fully recovered, Miss Julietta Butler be continued as her substitute at the rate of $525 per year.

We further recommend that all employees of the board be advised that this board looks with disfavor upon requests for release from contracts except for reasons beyond the control of the employee, and that all contracts must be signed by the employee and filed with the superintendent of schools on or before May 22, 1918, failure to do which will be considered declining the appointment.

SCHOOL JANITORS WANT INCREASE

In Their Salaries—Board of Education Refers Petition to Building Committee—Home Garden Plan Discussed—Bids Received for Light Fixtures and Shades for School No. 5.

At a meeting of the board of education held Friday evening in the city hall, a petition was received from the janitors of the public schools asking for a salary increase of $15 a month. They now receive $60 a month, excepting one janitor, who receives $40. The petition stated in substance that because of the increased cost of living, the additional $15 asked for was no more than could be reasonably expected. The petition was referred to the building committee.

The Federation of Women's Clubs asked permission for the use of the auditorium on a night to be stated, for the purpose of holding a meeting for the women voters; this meeting to be of a non-sectarian and non-political nature; the women to be given only general instructions on the franchise. The board granted the request. The condition that give $1200 to be discussed or issue be raised at the meeting, of any of the questions coming up at the next special election or the regular election.

Home Garden Campaign.
The subject of home gardens was discussed. Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael said that last year the children cultivated 1,300 gardens. He thought that the work should be taken up again this year, for it transforms unsightly backyards into productive pieces of land. This work was carried on under the direction of the Ulster County Home Garden Club and the club spent $200 on the work.

The federal government will contribute $150 and if the city raises $200, the state will duplicate this sum. The garden club will give $150 and the Chamber of Commerce will give $50. This makes $200, which the state will duplicate, making $400; the government will contribute $150, making $550 in which to carry on the work. Superintendent Michael suggested that the board pass a resolution permitting these funds to go in the treasury of the board and be passed out under the regular warrant system. This resolution was passed.

Pupils for Farm Labor.
A discussion of the state department of education's plan of releasing the pupils of the public schools for work on the farms, was held and the matter referred to the superintendent, with power. These pupils must have a class standing of at least 75 per cent or if their standing is 65 per cent they may be given an examination in the subjects. If released after June 1 they must take the regular regents' examinations.

Report of Finance Committee.
The pay roll for March, amounting to $11,208.42, was submitted and warrants ordered drawn for same. Vouchers amounting to $27,400.87 were submitted and ordered paid. Other routine financial matters were disposed of.

U. &amp; D. LOCOMOTIVE IN PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A former employee of The Freeman, Harry Swivel, now a telegrapher for the Central Railroad of New Jersey, sends the above photograph of one of the U. & D. locomotives leased to the New Jersey Railroad for the winter. It seemed like a glimpse of home to Mr. Swivel when he saw a locomotive from his home town on the tracks in Plainfield.

JOHN T. BOND DIED ON FRIDAY

Veteran Jeweler in Business Forty-

Two Years on Strand Died After

Long Illness—Well Known and Liked.

John T. Bond, the veteran jeweler of this city, died Friday evening at 10 o'clock at his home, No. 122 Franklin street, after a long illness.

Mr. Bond, who made his home with his sister, Miss Agnes Bond, was born in Blackpool, England, October 22, 1853, the son of John T. and Jane Bond. He came to this country in 1869, and for the past forty-two years had been located in business at No. 12 East Strand in the same store in which he started business.

When Mr. Bond started in business he leased part of the stationery store of Mr. Winter, and later when the business was taken over by Andrew J. Murphy who bought Mr. Winter's business, Mr. Bond continued the same arrangement with Mr. Murphy.

During the many years that Mr. Bond was located in business on the Strand he saw many changes in the business life downtown and could relate many interesting incidents of the business life of the lower section of the city.

Last summer Mr. Bond's health became such that it was necessary for him to take a vacation. During all the years he was in business he had never taken a vacation. He went south to recuperate and while in Richmond, Virginia, became so ill he had to be removed to a hospital.

Later he recovered somewhat and returned home when he attempted to resume his business life, but his health was such that he was unable to do any work to speak of. About the first of the year his health became such that he was forced to give up all attempts to carry on his business and a few weeks ago his entire stock was removed to his home on Franklin street and he retired from business.

During his long and honorable career Mr. Bond made a host of friends. He was a man of sterling character, and was never known to speak an ill word of any one.

As a watch repairer he was considered one of the best in the business in the Hudson river valley, and his reputation for excellent work repairing watches and clocks was widely known.

His retirement from the business life downtown and his death while not unexpected, came as a sudden shock to his numberless friends.

Aside from his work the only recreation Mr. Bond enjoyed was his work as a member of the Cornell Hose Company and for many years he had served as vice president of the company. He always took an active interest in fireman matters and his judgment and advice was always sought in important matters pertaining to the welfare of the company.

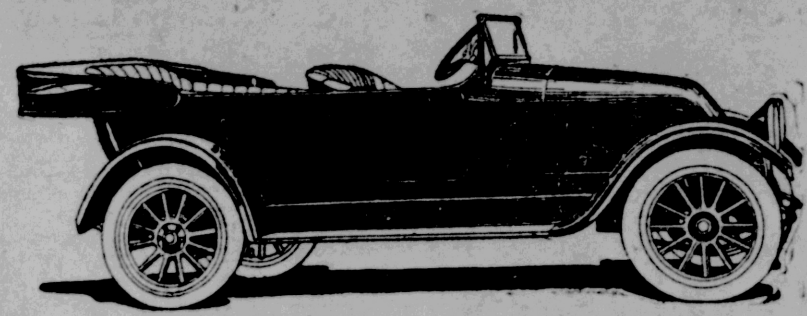

Besides his sister, Mr. Bond is survived by several brothers.

His death marks the passing of one of the best known and respected residents of the city.

The funeral will be held from the late residence on Franklin street on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Japanese "Fish Sausage."
The "kamoboko" or "fish sausage" of the Japanese is described by a consular report as made by chopping the white meat of any fish, passing through a colander, and making into a paste, with a flavoring of sugar, salt, and rice-brewed alcoholic beverage called "Mirin." The paste is made into loaves, steamed on boards an hour and a half to three hours, and at once packed in cans.

The Franklin Touring Car

The One Fine Car Whose Upkeep is Consistent With Its Performance

SOME one in our salesroom, the other day, touched on the subject of Thrift in connection with motor cars.

A timely subject!

Especially in its relation to the Franklin Touring Car.

What other fine car registers (not factory claims) 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline? Not one!

Outside of Franklin owners, how many fine car owners get 10,000 miles to the set of tires? Not one!

Let us have the name of a fine car that brings a used-car sale price in proportion to that of the Franklin.

The Franklin Touring Car is built on a rock-bottom thrift basis. And scientific - light-weight construction is the reason.

In the Franklin Touring Car we offer you a car you can afford to run for pleasure tours as well as for trips of necessity.

One of these cars is on our floor now-ready for prompt delivery.

SOLDIERS WORRY ABOUT HOME FOLKS

The Wonder Over "Those Darn Lies" About a Drunken Army—Delights of Rural France Pictured—Wants to See "The Big Show."

Q. M. C. A. P. C. 705, A. E. F. Feb. 27.—I had a fine 11 page letter written and ready to mail when I received a bunch of letters from home and so I will write all over again. Up until today I had no positive knowledge that you knew I was over here. I received a letter a few days ago from a girl in Saugerties, which was mailed January 25 and she mentioned reading of our trip so I sort of guessed she had heard, and if she had you also must have. Well, I feel better now that I know you have ceased to fret and worry.

Yesterday I received a card from Miss Walton. She says she finally cleared out that it must be me. She remembered being my algebra teacher in R. A. At first she thought it might be someone else by the same name.

No, I have not seen Reading, having come another way from here. Neither did I see M. Giraud. I may still get a chance to see him if I get a pass for a few days. I hope after I have been over here for 6 or 8 months to be allowed to go and see some of the country up where the big show is. From what I saw of northern France I think it must be fine in summer, but in winter—well, I am quite well satisfied.

There are so many boys here that you often meet some one from Frisco who you miss the fellow from home. I am daily meeting men from all over the states but as yet there are few men from the east here but I am looking every day for a regiment to march in composed of boys from any old place in the Empire state, they will seem like old friends. I can almost tell what state a man comes from from his dialect. Texas, New York, Kentucky, Frisco, Montana, every state has a peculiar saying all its own.

Why those darn lies? People seem to enjoy making people worry and getting selfish stories. We certainly are not limited to one letter a week. There is a blue letter which goes to the base censor and may be used for mailing several addressed letters at a time or just one as you desire. Only one blue envelope is allowed a man each week, but other letters are not limited. Where that story started I can't imagine. The pamphlet also is another type of matter which seems principally to be designed to make you people back home worry. There is some truth to it, but darn little. There are about the usual things as you will find under similar circumstances any place you go.

This refers to charges that troops are demoralized by drink and immorality. I see this quite often, for I go out where he is stationed, for pass etc. He is getting fat and is looking fine. I go out two or three times a week on the trucks and am seeing quite a bit of the country.

The remainder of my first letter, written at this point and I have to go and figure up my "gas and oil" accounts now, so will slip in a few pages. There are some duplications, but you can understand, I have no fine desk or pens to use so things is sort of difficult.

You see I am getting some joy rides on our 3-ton Packard "touring car." It is a good thing to break up the work and I enjoy the trip. Every time I ride though the country I see a great many interesting things and the more I see the more I think France has been a great country to live in. That is in the country out here, especially in the winter. But I can't "see" life in the city here any more than in America.

But the low, picturesque stone houses with their fine gardens, evergreens, and parks are great, and I think I should like to live out here in one of them if I only could speak the language. Some of the places, even now, are wonderful. They all give one the impression of age and their construction seems so solid and permanent. I imagine they are all very old. Just now I can't recall having seen a wooden house in all of France that I have seen so far. Some white stone everywhere.

As to my French, well, I can say "yes" and "no," "how much," "thank you" and order a meal in a restaurant, get a match and if it is a pretty girl and she takes plenty of time in asking me, and I take plenty of time in answering. I can tell you that. I can manage to buy things and that is all I am sure of. Oh, I can understand some things pretty well but don't get enough practice. There are so many Americans and French who speak English, that I don't have to depend on myself so we learn slowly. Thrown in among the French and made to either understand or do without, things we would soon learn. Well it is nearly March first and I am looking forward to the spring. Soon my four months will be up and I will be entitled to my seven days' furlough in the mountains. I wish I could get to see M. Giraud then or trade it for an excursion to the seacoast where the big guns boom without halting. It sounds good to hear, at a distance, when you feel safe but I wonder how it is out there on the fringe of No Man's Land.

Yesterday was wash day. I washed an O. D. shirt, socks, towels, underwear, handkerchiefs, etc. Today was sewing day in the army. I sewed a pair of "jacks" blouse, sewed the big guns boom without halting. It sounds good to hear, at a distance, when you feel safe but I wonder how it is out there on the fringe of No Man's Land.

To the banquet of The Freeman! Social Club was a success. Well I don't know if my stomach could stand much of that now or not. I am afraid I would eat about ten portions and still be hungry. Beans, corn, coffee and bacon are much more filling.

I saw Ernest the other day while I was on one of my trips. He looked well and happy. He told me the people I am sorry I have been unable to write, that is unable to keep them in reading matter, for I have written, but, of course, the trip over caused a break in mail for me.

I guess I worried about as much as you during the month of January. I worried over your worrying for I knew you would worry when you received no message. Well, I know now you have received direct word from me, or at least I hope so. The next few days, mail from the states will tell, and when I receive a letter with the P. O. number on it—well, I will feel fine.

I am getting stout. "Everyone notices it. I am going on toward 150 and still in the race. I guess sea air agrees with me all right, and mild weather, too.

Damn it, how I would like to put on a pair of skates and hit it up for a mile. I'll bet I could get over the ground quicker than I ever did before. I'll say army life and army food keeps a fellow in trim. That is if he wants it to. There is nothing like good out-door work, rough, healthy food and clean living, plenty of sleep and exercise, and say, that is all wrapped up in a little package ready for delivery when you go in the army. The rest is up to you.

(The writer was The Freeman's engraver, and he gives some valuable technical advice to the one who is trying to fill his place.)

This is all a guess as to your trouble and is talking over a great distance. If I could see a negative I could tell better but—I am 3,900 odd miles away. However, you are getting results even if not very good. It is interest you want to awaken, and I guess the people are waking up from what I see in the papers I have received. I ought to have taken someone in and taught them the trade. You don't get much time for yourself with all the extra work.

I guess I will quit now for the cold is creeping in as the fire gets low. It is very damp and foggy so a little cold goes a great way.

I hope this will find you and all the folks and friends in the states in as good health as I am, and for goodness sake tell them to write once in a while.

FRED.

New York, March 23.—A report circulated in Wall street this morning that the Germans had broken through the British line at one point caused prices to drop on nearly everything traded in. Stocks were in large supply. Mexican Petroleum dropped 1 1/2 to 92; Texas Company one point to 144; General Motors 1 1/2 to 117 1/2; Central Leather one point to 64 1/2 and General Electric 1 1/2 to 135 1/2. Steel Common fell 1/2 to 89 1/2, and Bethlehem Steel B dropped 1/2 to 77. Marine Common was lower at 25 1/2, while the Preferred yielded one point to 83. Reading was off one point at 80 1/2, and Union Pacific sustained an equal loss at 60. Liberty Second 4's sold up to 96.93 while the 3 1/2's were traded in at 98.30.

During final trading there were some slight rallies by stocks which were very weak. Canadian Pacific was exceptionally strong, holding around the previous closing level of 136 while Corn Products fell only one point to 35 1/2. Most of the other issues were off from 3 to 4 points. Reading sold as low as 78 1/2. Steel Common 88 1/2. Baldwin 78 1/2, and Marine Preferred 91 1/2.

Play Was a Success.

The play, "Look Out For Paint," which was successfully given last week in St. James' M. E. Church, was repeated at school No. 6 on Friday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund of the school. There was a large attendance and the audience thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The Misses Marjorie Norwood and Frances Kellher took their parts in a most praiseworthy manner and fully earned the accolades they received. Others who received special attention were Maurice Niles as the tramp, Louis Shaw as the good-natured boy, and Mrs. Milne Prescott. A specialty feature which was introduced between the second and third acts was the solo, "Bring Me a Rose," by Miss M. Helen Freer, which was acted by Miss Freer and Mr. Niles. They were heartily encouraged. Thanks of the school are due to each of the participants in the entertainment and also to Buckley & Schryver for the use of plan for building the platform.

Qualified Explanation.

The teacher had asked the children to tell her something about giants when one little boy blurted out: "A giant is an awfully great—oh, big man—" and then a pause and fearing some one would think he believed in them, quickly added: "But most everybody knows there isn't."

AT SCHOOL NO. 7.

Entertainment to Aid in Joining Red Cross Auxiliary.

School No. 7 was the scene of a record breaking audience and a fine entertainment Friday evening when more than enough money was raised to enroll the school among the various Red Cross Junior Auxiliaries of the city. The hall where the entertainment was given was so crowded that there was scarcely standing room left for a small child, and while many had to stand throughout the entire evening and many more could not see the performers at all, they could hear, and for the sake of the children and the cause all took the situation in the best of good nature. The program opened with a violin and piano selection played with much of artistic musical merit by Miss Mollett and Miss Eckert. This was followed by a brave recital of "Your Flag and My Flag," given by Robert Herrog. Then came a sweet little song by Donald and Ruth Norris that greatly pleased the audience. A drill, "Come Pity With Me," by little folks of the first and second grades, was well given and heartily applauded. With spirit and a clear, strong voice, Westbrook Stelle recited, "The Twentieth Century Pledge." The Twentieth Century Pledge, given by sixth grade pupils.

audience, every one of whom could hear this speaker.

James Tinnie, in Scotch costume, was given a hearty welcome as he appeared to sing, "Why I Wear the Kilt." Mr. Tinnie generously gave several other selections throughout the evening, every one of which was heartily applauded. Mr. Tinnie kindly responding with an encore to the last number.

"Hoover's Gown" to Get 'Em" was so well recited by Hayden Raynor as to call forth enthusiastic applauding by the entire audience. A very pretty quaint drill, "In Grandma's Time," was nicely given by pupils of the third grade in costume. Then the music lovers in the audience were given a treat in the piano selection, "Tantania," played charmingly by Ottilia Riccobono. A recitation, "Hymn of Freedom," given by Mrs. Harry Van Wageningen elicited the heartiest applause. She also gave an other pleasing selection with piano accompaniment. Five boys followed, giving a clever Revolutionary sketch, "The Boston Boys," in a realistic manner. "The Little Red Cross Helper," as recited by Elizabeth DeWitt, delighted everyone. The final recitation of the evening was "The Flag of Freedom," given in a manly fashion and so all could hear and enjoy it. By Joe Forman. The program closed with "Star Spangled Banner," given finely by sixth grade pupils.

Principal Coons then heartily thanked the audience for their attendance, and expressed regret that all could not have been made more comfortable, as had it been expected that the audience would be so large, the performance would have been held in the high school. He also announced that there was a plate of ice cream waiting for every person in the audience, every member of which would be comfortably served in the grade rooms. After the serving of the refreshments, dancing was enjoyed for some time, excellent music being given by Miss Mollett and Miss Eckert.

SOLDIERS, 40 POLICE, 18

That Was the Score of the Famous Game Between Cops and Company M Friday at Armory—Fair Sized Crowd Present.

Company M's selected ball tossers simply slaughtered the members of the police force at indoor baseball Friday evening at the state armory, winning the game easily by a score of 40 to 18. The main credit for running the game for the soldiers must be allotted first to Corporal Charles Davis whose pitching was of Grade A brand, and also to the time he hiting of the other boys who ran on sergeant's primary on the police force in the first inning with a dull and deadly third and when the smoke cleared away the soldiers had piled up ten runs.

From then on the cops were put in front by the soldiers who kept on their timely hitting. Phinney, like the hero he is, steadily maintained his position in the box and did not let a little matter of forty runs leave him. In fact it was remarkable how cool and collected Chief Wood and his cops were. This was due some said to the fact that they all wore their summer brand of underwear of a certain well advertised brand.

Officer Fout covered himself with glory in the last of the ninth when he was the first man up by striking out. This misadventure was due to the fact that Officer Fout was thinking deeply and doing some close detective work on the chicken coop robbery the other night on Highland avenue which he is investigating. While thinking of the solution Corporal Davis hurried three beating across the plate and Officer Fout returned to the side lines and sat down.

"Jim" Simpson on third base and Sergeant Hanley on first with Officer Martin on second and the graceful Kuhn on short formed an able combination but their signal system was not working correctly. Chief Wood

Letters of administration on the estate of Peter Winchell of the town of Olive were issued to Clyde A. Winchell and Angeline Winchell. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $700. Senator Charles W. Walton appeared for the administrators.

A petition for the judicial settlement of the account of John H. Reid an executor for Emily K. Graham under the will of Alice E. Christie was filed and a citation was issued returnable April 20. A S. Rumber of Walden appeared for the trustee.

Company M.—Behrens, left field; Preston, right field; Mullen, first base; Davis pitcher; Selb, center field; Reynolds, third base; Mergendahl, catcher; Hagenlocker, second base; Gerhardt, short stop.

Following is the score: Cops—0 2 9 1 3 0 4 2 6 18 Co. M.—10 8 8 5 6 3 5 1 8—49 Empire, Lawrence Godfrey, Scorekeeper M. Clyde Crasby.

Marvelous Facts of Salmon. Leaving the salt water of the ocean for the fresh-water streams on the Pacific coast the salmon quickly changes color from silver to blood red. In agreement with this metamorphosis the fish also undergoes a change in the texture of its flesh. A slow but steady deterioration sets in. When the appointed time has come to move to its selected place, the fish turns in with a big tide that goes far into the chosen stream. And in touching the desired grounds in fresh water far from the sea, the salmon performs almost unbelievable feats. It will jump small waterfalls, swimming up greater ones to the height of 15 feet. This feat, seemingly contrary to natural laws, the salmon performs. Choosing a point where a fall of the water is heaviest, it rushes up it with all its swimming power.

The Dew. Dew is merely aqueous vapor which has condensed on bodies during the night in the form of minute globules. It is characterized by the chilling which bones meet the surface of the earth experience in consequence of nocturnal radiation. Then temperature then leaving fallen seven degrees below the temperature of the air, it frequently happens, especially in hot seasons, that this temperature is below that at which the atmosphere is saturated. The layer of air which is immediately in contact with the chilled bodies then deposits a portion of the vapor which it contains; just as when a bottle of cold water is brought into a warm room, it becomes covered with moisture, owing to the condensation of aqueous vapor upon it.

Trip to Ocean Well Worth While. The United States of America has nearly half of the population lives in the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf states, there have been 30,000,000 people who have the sea within comparatively easy reach. There are, to be sure, millions of people who are so far removed from the coast that the sea is to them almost a myth, but it is safe to say that there are not a dozen people within our boundaries who would not see the ocean if they could. Perhaps there are more who will never have their eyes gladdened with the sight, but the present great facilities of railroad travel are lessening the number of unfortunate every year.

Mirrors for Household Decoration. They say that a man's first thought on entering a room is, "Where is there a place to sit down?" but a woman's first thought is, "Where is there a mirror?" It has been woman's thought from time immemorial, for from time immemorial there have been mirrors. It is only since the beginning of the nineteenth century that mirrors have been used as articles of household furniture and decoration, and there are few women of the present day who do not realize and make use of their artistic value in adorning their homes.

Jerusalem's History. At the time of the birth of Christ Jesus, in which the city of Jerusalem was situated, was a possession of the kingdom of Judea. In the year 70 A. D. about thirty-five years after the death of Christ, Jerusalem was captured by the Romans under Vespasian. Time and wars have destroyed it, and it was rebuilt by the Romans and held successively for varying periods by them, by the Persians, by the Mohammedans, by the Crusaders and by the Turks.

Gardens in Japan and China. The garden, per se, in both Japan and China is most frequently to be found in the grounds of some public building or temple. The Chinese garden is as reversed to our eyes as their writing for it consists chiefly of water. On a pool or pond they develop their wonderful aquatic plants, the lotus, lilies of myriad color and variety and brilliant foliage specimens. In addition to this the walks are sometimes bordered with flowering plants in pots or jardinières, which are changed and shifted from time to time. Of these the favorites are such flowers as the peony and others which are believed to possess medicinal properties. But the essential of the Chinese gardener is to display his aquatic floriculture.

King of the Forest! The mahogany tree well deserves the title, "king of the forest" because of its great wood value and its beauty and sturdiness. It does not always develop a trunk as large as some of its tropical neighbors, but often it reaches a greater height. One hundred feet is not unusual. The West Indies, Mexico, Latin America, parts of Southern Florida and the Bahamas are its native haunts. For many years the supply of mahogany seemed almost inexhaustible, but now there is grave danger of the output becoming less and less because of the scarcity of mature trees. Other woods are being substituted for mahogany. A tree three feet in diameter is probably not less than 200 years old, indicating the slow growth of the species.

Responsibility and the Will. Responsibility strengthens the will. Many a weak man when put into a position of responsibility has made good and astonished his associates by the exhibition of qualities that they never imagined he possessed, and that probably would have lain dormant had he not been called upon to exercise them. There is no great mystery about this. A position of responsibility forces a man to make quick decisions, and this training naturally strengthens the will. There is still another reason why responsibility develops a man's will. If an individual is holding down a position of trust, he is naturally looked up to by his subordinates. This puts him on his mettle, and he uses all his resources in the determination to prove worthy of that trust. Responsibility has also been known to cure men of the drink habit for the same reason.—Dr. James Walsh in American Magazine.

Shopping for Money. By HILDEGARDE HAWTHORNE of the Vigilantes. "Well, what are you shopping for today?" It was Monday morning, and Mr. Smith looked over the top of his paper at his wife, who was jotting down items on a little pad at the other end of the breakfast table. In a few minutes Smith would have to make a jump to get his train, but he and Martha always had a little fun together that morning in the week over the bargaining she was planning.

"None of your teasing," smiled Martha. "This time I'm going for a real bargain. I'm going to shop for money."

Smith may have liked to play at teasing his wife, but he knew mighty well what an excellent housekeeper she was, and how wisely she spent the money he made. Their two children were as well dressed, and they got as good a table as their neighbors', but their bills were a great deal smaller, and Smith was able to tuck away a nice sum each month. Yes, Martha was a good bargainer and a careful shopper. She watched the market and bought what was low and good, bought to advantage, and bought real values.

"I know a bargain when I see one," continued Martha. "and money is a bargain just now. So I'm going to buy some—just as much as we can manage to pay for."

"Buy money?" Smith allowed his voice to do all the expressing it could. "Well, what else would you call it?" His wife inquired. "Look here, Dick, seems to me when you can buy five dollars for four dollars and twelve cents, that's about as good a bargain as we are likely to run across."

"Who's going to sell you five dollars for anything less than five dollars?" Smith wanted to know. "The government." And there was that note of triumph in Martha's voice that the best of women cannot still when they score one on more man.

Smith grinned. "You mean these War Savings Certificates, eh?" "Only those and nothing more," chuckled his wife. "I've been figuring, and I can see how we can manage to buy one of these bargain fives every week. Our two meatless days a week will do most of it, and the best of it is that we shan't only be doing a mighty good thing for ourselves, but we shall be helping the old U. S. in this war. It's being made mighty easy for us. I shall buy the stamps each day from the money I save marketing, and at the end of the week I'll have five dollars' worth on my card, and it won't have cost me more than four twelve."

"You have to hold on to your certificates quite some time to get the whole five."

"What of that? We'll get it, and if we have to sell out before we get all the five, and I always believe in looking at the damp gray side of the cloud as well as at the golden lining, we shan't lose a cent, and we'll gain whatever the interest amounts to at the time we sell. Besides, though we get a Liberty Bond for each of the children, I want them to have a steady interest in saving, and in saving for their country. They are going to help me get this needed sum each week, and they know just what it's to be for. There are as excited about it as can be. Nellie volunteered at once to give up 10 cents a week out of her allowance, and Billy said he's going to run errands for Mrs. Robinson for a quarter a week, and give me that—until I'm big enough to be a soldier."

"The two smiled at each other. "I'll have to come in on this, too," Smith declared, looking at his watch and getting to his feet. "I can do a bit of saving on my own account, and we'll see who will win out in this little money shopping scheme of yours. Just as soon as we all recognize that every 10 cents saved counts on the side of victory, and that every cent we do save can't be put to better use or be more safely secured than in just that way, just so soon this country will have solved its problems, and turned from being the waster among the nations to a thrifty and economy. After which words of wisdom I leave you to your machinations."

Martha laughed. "I know you'd approve, Dick. And it's really going to be the finest training for the youngsters, as well as a good investment."

Concrete Culverts Best. Concrete culverts are, without doubt, the best to use in point of durability and cost of maintenance. There are several reinforced and plain concrete pipes manufactured in most states which make very satisfactory culverts.

Don't Disturb Sow. After farrowing the sow should not be disturbed, and if she lies quietly for 10 or 12 hours, so much the better. When she wants anything she will go to the trough for it.

An ordinance for the grading and paving, curbing, guttering and flagging for the construction of sanitary and storm water sewers in Field Court from the northeast corner of said street to Broadway.

Passed March, 1918. The Board of Public Works of the city of Kingston do ordain as follows: Resolved, that Field Court between the east end of Broadway and the east end of said street be graded in accordance with the grade established by the ordinance passed September 7th, 1916.

Resolved, that said Field Court shall be paved with a Bituminous or Asphalt Macadam pavement for its whole length.

Resolved, that sanitary and storm water sewers with the necessary V branches, manholes and other appurtenances, be constructed, commencing at a point near the eastern end of said Field Court and running thence in a southerly direction to the corner of the street and Broadway.

Resolved, that the sidewalks on both sides and at the corners and of Field Court be curbed, guttered and flagged in accordance with the grade of said street with a rising inclination of one-quarter of an inch per foot from the curb line to the gutter line.

Resolved, that the curbs shall not be less than four inches in depth nor less than four inches in thickness. The gutter stones shall be fourteen inches in width and at least three inches thick. The curbs shall be set to the established elevation and grade of the street and cut in the curves of the proper radius at intersecting streets.

The gutter stones shall be six inches below the top of the curb, smooth facing stones six feet in width and not less than three inches in thickness and shall be laid with a rising inclination of one-quarter of an inch per foot from the curb line to the gutter line.

All curbing, guttering and flagging shall be embedded in sand or other equally good material free from stones, shall be made and completed within thirty days after due service of notice upon the owner or owners of said street. If the work be not done and completed within the time above specified the expense of putting missing grade stakes shall be paid by said owner, or owners of said street.

Board of Public Works may have the curbing, guttering and flagging done at the expense of the delinquent owner or owners of said street.

Provided, however, that if any property owner so elects concrete sidewalks and curbs and gutters of approved construction satisfactory to the city engineer and of the designated widths and depths as herein provided may be used in place and stead of flagging.

Resolved, that such grading and paving and the construction of the sewers, manholes and other appurtenances be constructed in accordance with the plans and specifications to be prepared by the city engineer and approved by the Board of Public Works. That such improvements be made by and under the supervision of the city engineer by the superintendent of the city of Kingston and the cost and expenses thereof when certified by them to the Board of Public Works, shall be collected in the same manner as if said improvements had been made by contract as provided by Chapter 611 of the Laws of 1915, and that twenty-five per cent of the cost thereof be paid by the Board of Public Works and the remaining seventy-five per cent of the cost thereof be paid by the owner or owners of the property benefited by such improvements.

There is no greater joy than the feeling that some act of ours has inspired another to be brave and strong. One of the beautiful things about right doing is that it is an inspiration to others. No life is a real success which has not scattered inspiration alo the way.

SCHOOL JANITORS WANT INCREASE

In Their Salaries—Board of Education Refers Petition to Building Committee—Home Garden Plan Discussed—Bids Received for Light Fixtures and Shades for School No. 5.

At a meeting of the board of education held Friday evening in the city hall, a petition was received from the janitors of the public schools asking for a salary increase of $15 a month. They now receive $60 a month, excepting one janitor, who receives $40. The petition stated in substance that because of the increased cost of living the additional $15 asked for was no more than could be reasonably expected. The petition was referred to the building committee.

The Federation of Women's Clubs asked permission for the use of the auditorium on a night to be stated, for the purpose of holding a meeting for the women voters; this meeting to be of a non-sectarian and non-political nature; the women to be given only general instructions on the franchise. The board granted the request on the condition that no questions be discussed or issue be raised at the meeting, of any of the questions coming up at the next special election or the regular election.

Home Garden Campaign.
The subject of home gardens was discussed. Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael said that last year the children cultivated 1,300 gardens. He thought that the work should be taken up again this year, for it transforms unsightly backyards into productive pieces of land. This work was carried on under the direction of the Union County Home Garden Club and the club spent $200 on the work.

The federal government will contribute $150 and if the city raises $200, the state will duplicate this sum. The garden club will give $150 and the Chamber of Commerce will give $50. This makes $200, which the state will duplicate, making $400; the government will contribute $150, making $550 in which to carry on the work. Superintendent Michael suggested that the board pass a resolution permitting these funds to go in the treasury of the board and be passed out under the regular warrant system. This resolution was passed.

Pupils for Farm Labor.
A discussion of the state department of education's plan of releasing the pupils of the public schools for work on the farms, was held and the matter referred to the superintendent, with power. These pupils must have a class standing of at least 75 per cent or if their standing is 65 per cent they may be given an examination in the subjects, if released after June 1 they must take the regular regents' examinations.

Report of Finance Committee.
The pay roll for March, amounting to $11,208.12, was submitted and warrants ordered drawn for same. Vouchers amounting to $27,406.87 were submitted and ordered paid.

Bids for Supplies for School No. 5.
Bids for lighting, fixtures and shades for School No. 5 were received and referred to the building committee. The bids were as follows:

Lighting Fixtures—A. H. Clark, 390 Fair street, $215, $230, $240, $245, $250; Charles A. Ward, 262 Fair street, $259.95; Joseph McNeill, 262 Fair street, $242, $223, $225; Lighting Studios Company of New York city, $250.

Shades—L. H. Van Wagenen Company, 224 68, this bid good for 10 days from date; Forsyth & Davis, $345.75 for 134 shades; Stock & Cordis, $281.43 for 126 shades; $311.40 for the same number of shades of a better quality.

Report of Teachers' Committee.
The following report was submitted to the teachers' committee: To the Honorable, the Board of Education.

Your teachers' committee would respectfully submit the following report.
Because of the falling off of attendance in the high school on account of the war, from over 900 in 1915 to an attendance of 704 during the month of February, 1918, with no prospect of an increase in the immediate future, your committee advise, in favor of the discontinuance of a teacher in the department of English and one in the department of mathematics.

We announce the resignation of Miss May B. Demarest, teacher of mathematics, to take effect at the close of the current school year. We call the attention of the board to the fact that Miss Demarest

U. &amp; D. LOCOMOTIVE IN PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A former employee of The Freeman, Harry Swivel, now a telegrapher for the Central Railroad of New Jersey, sends the above photograph of one of the U. & D. locomotives leased to the New Jersey Railroad for the winter. It seemed like a glimpse of home to Mr. Swivel when he saw a locomotive from his home town on the tracks in Plainfield.

Egan, fifth grade teacher of school No. 8, has been absent from duty several months on account of prolonged illness. Pending her recovery we recommend that the position be held open for her until the 20th of August and that if at that time she is not fully recovered, Miss Julietta Butler be continued as her substitute at the rate of $525 per year.

We further recommend that all employees of the board be advised that this board looks with disfavor upon requests for release from contracts except for reasons beyond the control of the employee, and that all contracts must be signed by the employee and filed with the superintendent of schools on or before May 22, 1918, failure to do which will be considered as declining the appointment.

We recommend the appointment of principals, teachers and employees for the school year beginning August 1, 1918, and ending July 31, 1919, at salaries indicated opposite each name in the following list.

JOHN T. BOND DIED ON FRIDAY

Veteran Jeweler in Business Forty-two Years on Strand Died After Long Illness—Well Known and Liked.

John T. Bond, the veteran jeweler of this city, died Friday evening at 10 o'clock at his home, No. 122 Franklin street, after a long illness. Mr. Bond, who made his home with his sister, Miss Agnes Bond, was born in Blackpool, England, October 22, 1853, the son of John T. and Jane Bond. He came to this country in 1869, and for the past forty-two years had been located in business at No. 12 East Strand in the same store in which he started business.

When Mr. Bond started in business he leased part of the stationery store of Mr. Winter, and later when the business was taken over by Andrew J. Murphy who bought Mr. Winter's business, Mr. Bond continued the same arrangement with Mr. Murphy. During the many years that Mr. Bond was located in business on the Strand he saw many changes in the business life downtown and could relate many interesting incidents of the business life of the lower section of the city. Last summer Mr. Bond's health became such that it was necessary for him to take a vacation. During all the years he was in business he had never taken a vacation. He went south to recuperate and while in Richmond, Virginia, became so ill he had to be removed to a hospital. Later he recovered somewhat and returned home when he attempted to resume his business life, but his health was such that he was unable to do any work to speak of. About the first of the year his health became such that he was forced to give up all attempts to carry on his business and a few weeks ago his entire stock was removed to his home on Franklin street and he retired from business.

During his long and honorable career Mr. Bond made a host of friends. He was a man of sterling character, and was never known to speak an ill word of any one.

As a watch repairer he was considered one of the best in the business in the Hudson river valley, and his reputation for excellent work repairing watches and clocks was widely known.

His retirement from the business life downtown and his death while not unexpected, came as a sudden shock to his numberless friends.

Aside from his work the only recreation Mr. Bond enjoyed was his work as a member of the Cornell Hose Company and for many years he had served as vice president of the company. He always took an active interest in fireman's matters and his judgment and advice was always sought in important matters pertaining to the welfare of the company.

Besides his sister, Mr. Bond is survived by several brothers. His death marks the passing of one of the best known and respected residents of the city.

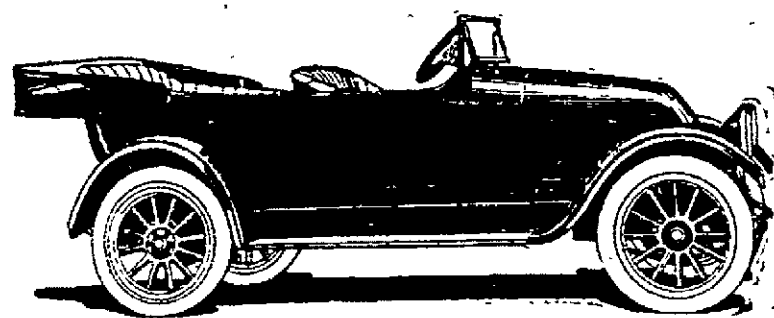

The funeral will be held from the late residence on Franklin street on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Japanese "Fish Sausage."

The "kamaboko" or "fish sausage" of the Japanese is described by a con-sular report as made by chopping the white meat of any fish, passing through a colander, and making into a paste, with a flavoring of sugar, salt, and rice-brewed alcoholic beverage called "mirin." The paste is made into loaves, steamed on boards an hour and a half to three hours, and at once packed in cans.

To Watch Each Other.

"If all the laws that's been" scussed, said Uncle Eben, "fits put into force, nearly all the folks alive'll have to turn in and be policemen."

Petrograd Wine Cellars.

The imperial wine cellars underneath the winter palace at Petrograd have been sacked, and nothing remains of what was the largest and finest collection in the world of the best wines of the choicest growth of the most famous years. A great deal had been quietly stolen during the last six months by enterprising patriots, and in the end the soldiers on guard obtained possession of the cellars, and were joined by a huge mob recruited from the dregs of the populace. Tens of thousands of bottles were destroyed, and the floors of the immense cellars were knee-deep in liquor, the end of the orgies being that muddy water from the Nava was pumped into the cellars, after which the mixture of wine and water was pumped back into the river. Thousands of bottles were fired upon to facilitate the destruction. Numbers of the rioters are reported to have been drowned, as they were lying dead drunk on the floors of the cellars in heaps.

Young Diplomat.

David, recovering from a long illness, was given an egg nog daily, much to his delight, and much to the envy of his sister, Mary Jane. While David was drinking his, one morning, Mary begged for one too, but mother said, "No," whereupon mother heard David whisper to his sister: "Here, Mary, you drink this one quick, and when it is all gone, I'll cry for another one."

Little-Known Philippine Industry.

People usually connect the Philippine Islands with perfumes and tropical fruits, and very little is heard of the great native industry—the weaving of fabrics from pineapples and bananas. The lining of the skins is used, and the looms not unlike those familiar to us are employed. The finest material is made from pineapples, and called pina cloth. It is very soft and close in texture, somewhat resembling multi-muslin, and is the color of champagne. It is not as a rule dyed, and is beautifully embroidered.

Ancients Valued Salt Highly.

It is not astonishing that the possession of salt mines or salt deposits was the cause of many disputes and even wars among nations, and Tacitus relates that the Hermunduri waged bloody war with the Chatti for over fifty years for the possession of salt springs which were situated on the banks of the River Saale in Franconia, and in the neighboring forests, believing that such localities were closer to heaven and that the prayers of the mortals, in these places, were particularly apt to be heard.—Medicine and Surgery.

All Depends on Spirit.

Whether a life is noble or ignoble depends not on the calling which is adopted, but on the spirit in which it is followed.—Sir John Lubbock.

Spanish Blood in Conquered Races.

Spain, in colonizing the new world, always followed the policy of sending soldiers, but few or no women. It was the inevitable result that in every land conquered by Spain the population is to a considerable extent of mixed Indian and Spanish blood. Thus in Chile, Valdivia, one of the early Spanish explorers captured an Araucanian chief, Michi-Malonco, and held him for ransom. The chief of the tribe offered 500 Indian virgins for the release of the chief, and this offer was accepted by the Spaniards. In this way originated the Chilean race of today, although it has subsequently been modified by accession of other racial strains.

Statues for Bee-Hives.

A landowner in Silesia, Germany, has a collection of statues representing Biblical and ecclesiastical characters which he prizes very much. Lifesize figures of Moses, the twelve apostles, and ancient dignitaries stand solemnly in a row. But the owner mixes business with his fine art, which the highest art critics say never should be done, and has fixed these figures as homes for the busy bees. There is this record of bees selecting a surrogate kind of hive than the solemn figure of Moses or Paul: "And he turned aside to see the carcass of the lion; and behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcass of the lion." (Judges 14:2.)—Christian Herald.
